School Matters!

Attend Today, Achieve Tomorrow

Attendance

You will notice from our attendance figures this week that we are far from our school target of 96%.

Attendance at school is vital for your children if they are going to keep up with the curriculum and the expectations of school. Each day is progressive and when a child misses school they also miss elements of learning. For some children this will make catching up difficult.

Please make sure that your child attends school every day. We understand that there are a lot of genuine illnesses, particularly in younger children, but it is vital that children attend school as much as possible.

Our Education Welfare Officer will be in contact with families that the school are concerned about in the coming weeks. If you are having any difficulties with your child attending school, please contact Mrs Smallwood, our Pastoral Lead, who will have a confidential discussion with you.

Science Week

The children will be taking part in a host of activities in the coming week. The theme will be space and we hope that the children really get to immerse themselves in science.

We thank all of the families for their great entries into the Space Camp project. We have had some amazing models in school and the children have been really proud of their creations, big and small.

Some of the children will be taking part in Space Camp, which is planned for Thursday 14th October. We hope that they also have a great experience of looking at the stars and camping out. We will share pictures and information through our Facebook and Twitter pages.

Reading is the key to the curriculum. Reading is a key priority for us at school and we spend extensive time hearing children read and ensuring that they have books matched to their ability. It would be a great help if parents also heard their child read and filled in their reading journal. A big thank you to all that already do.

Can parents also make sure that the children have their book bags in school every day.

There are still many places available at Breakfast club. If you would like your child to attend please contact the school office.
